

FISH TRAPS

Each of these traps is fitted with a funnel-shaped opening which allows the fish to enter but prevents their escape. They are placed at the ends of conduits which lead the water of small streams through them. The smaller specimens are often attached to the side and then serve as fish baskets.

APAYAO

Northwestern Luzon, Philippine Islands

ROBERT F. CUMMINGS EXPEDITION

F. C. COLE, COLLECTOR

109466, 525-7