

HUNTING SPEAR

Spears of this type are used only for hunting. The head fits loosely into the shaft, to which it is securely attached with a rope. As soon as the weapon enters the body of a deer or pig the head pulls out of the shaft. This trails behind until it becomes entangled in the undergrowth, thus putting the animal at the mercy of the hunter.

BAGOBO

Southern Mindanao, Philippine Islands

ROBERT F. CUMMINGS EXPEDITION

F. C. COLE, COLLECTOR

129168