

173236

FIELD MUSEUM OF NATURAL HISTORY

ENT

Country Ancient Egypt

Locality _____

People Egyptians

Stock

Name Bronze statuette of a seated goddess (seat lacking) holding child Horus on lap. She seems to be hybrid of Isis and Serket, whose scorpion (but human-headed) crowns her head. She wears uraeus, armlets and bracelets, and close-fitting dress reaching almost to feet.

Collection Selected by Prof. James H. Breasted from André Bircher's collection.

Presented by Ernest R. Graham, Chicago.

Acc. 1596

Cf. similar mingling of Isis and Serket, but in different form, in Cairo 39205-6 and '8.

Width .04

Length ca. .08

Height .16 over all. Price

[1042]

Pho. neg.
P. 145

X170

Hornemann, Types of Egyptian Statuary #1284

Late period : Isis - Hddt ? or ^{Isis-} Selket