

123. Chinese Plate in Lacquered Leather

The incised design of a flying crane and clouds is filled in with colored pigments in a technique similar to what the Japanese call "CHINKIN-BORI". This example was collected in Anhui Province, China, and dates to the Ch'ien-lung (Qienlung) period, AD 1736-1795.