

→

MAN'S WINTER CLOTHING

The national costume of Tibet is a large and long sleeved gown, called a ch'uba, a name of Turkish derivation. Only the nomadic tribes rigidly adhere to this ancient dress. In summer a ch'uba of cloth is worn; in winter one of sheepskin is used. Note the charm box attached to the belt. From the belt hang a powder horn, a leather pouch containing bullets, and copper cartridges ready to charge. The sword scabbard is made of wood.

NOMADIC TRIBES

Tibet

123502 ✓ stockings

123687 ✓ pouch
123690 ✓ ok.
2# 1 paper

123689 ✓ chuba

122326 ✓ Belt

122280 ✓ sword

122326 ✓ Charm Box
wrong.

123688 ✓ Belt & powder